Society for Information Display
Commemorates Fiftieth Anniversary

SID was founded in Room 3400, Boelter Hall, UCLA, on September 29, 1962, by Dr. H.R. Luxenberg and 39 attendees who represented major high-tech firms.

Dr. Luxenberg continued his UCLA Extension class in Display Technology which SID past president, Larry Tannas, Jr. continued for 20 years after succeeding Dr. Luxenberg in 1980.

Professor Yang Yang, UCLA, now holds the Carol and Lawrence E. Tannas, Jr., Endowed Chair in Engineering, the world's first Collegiate Engineering Chair devoted to electronic information displays.

SID - on September 29, 2012 - has members in 11 US chapters - including SID-LA, the founding chapter, 18 worldwide foreign chapters, and 5 worldwide student branches including the UCLA student branch.
